Footy Show reporter, actor, model, SANDY GREENWOOD has got it going on

Watch Foxtel's Marngrook Footy Show on Thursday nights, and you'll catch reporter Sandy Greenwood, too. But maybe not for much longer.

"Marngrook's the only indigenous footy show, with an all-indigenous panel," says Sandy, 28, but she has more going on than chatting to footy players. An actor, her first feature movie is out in September, and Hollywood beckons. "It's called Little Black Dress. It's a romantic comedy with a supernatural twist. I go from an everyday Melburnian to the most famous person on the planet."

Not content with acting and reporting, Sandy also models, as you can see. "I've always been a serious theatre actor – then I go off and do these photo shoots. But I do have confidence in my body. I don't mind being seen as sexy. One day I'm going to grow old and be proud I used all my assets to get where I wanted to go."
